

Latest Update: Spatial Vision's Coronavirus Response

COVID-19 remains a concern to us all. In these challenging times, Spatial Vision would like to reassure our clients that:

We're open for business

We remain committed to maintaining delivery of services and have been working closely with our clients to adapt to their needs.

Spatial Vision employees are now able work in our office or continue working from home. All of our staff remain fully accessible through email and phone.

We welcome the opportunity to meet face-to-face with clients, where this in line with client policies and perceptions of safety. A range of safety preventative measures continue to be implemented in our building and our office.

We're protecting our employees

Our responsibility begins with our people. We continue to support our employees with the following key areas of attention:

- a) employees' health and welfare;
- b) the ability of our employees to perform their roles while working from home;
- c) supply-chain monitoring; and
- d) stakeholder coordination and communication.

Our Managing Director and General Manager Operations continue to lead our planning and response efforts assisted by key people from every function across the company.

Let Spatial Vision know how we can support you

We understand that our clients each have their work practices, policies and operational environments. We encourage clients to let us know if there is any way that we can better support them or deliver our services.

If you have any questions or suggestions, please contact

Your SV Project Leader

or

Graeme Martin

General Manager Operations

03 9691 3000

graeme.martin@spatialvision.com.au

Wednesday 22 December 2021